Pradhosha Stotrashtakam

Pradhosha Stotrashtakam

The Pradhosha Stotra is a spiritual phrase used in the Shaiva tradition of Hinduism. It is a collection of 10 stanzas (shatras) which are sung or recited during the Pradhosha period, a time dedicated to the worship of Lord Shiva. The Pradhosha period is observed during the waning moon and is considered a particularly auspicious time for devotion to Shiva.

In this stotra, each stanza contains a series of mantras that are meant to invoke the blessings and grace of Lord Shiva. The mantras are often used in conjunction with the practice of meditation and fasting, and are believed to bring about spiritual growth and enlightenment.

The Pradhosha Stotra is a significant part of Shaiva worship and is often included in daily prayers and rituals. Its recitation is considered to be a powerful means of connecting with the divine and achieving spiritual realization.
